The End of a Noble Life.

Hon. William Elwell, for Twenty-six Years President Judge of the Twenty-sixth Judicial District, Expired on Tuesday Morning.

BELOVED, HONORED AND REVERED;

He Leaves a Noble Record of a Well Spent Life

The saddest duty that has ever fallen to the editor of this paper, is forced upon him this week. It is to make the announcement of the death of his beloved, honored and aged father, Hon. William Elwell. On Tuesday morning at 3.45 o'clock, he fell asleep so quietly, peacefully and painlessly that the members of his family who surrounded him scarcely knew when they ceased to look upon the form of a living husband and father, and saw only the earthly habitation of his immortal soul which had taken its flight heavenward. His age was 87 years and 6 days.

The funeral services will be held at St. Paul's Church on Friday morning at nine o'clock, conducted by the rector, Rev. D. N. Kirkby. The remains will be taken on the 10.49 train to Towanda, for interment in the family plot in Riverside Cemetery.

William Elwell was born in Athens, Bradford Co., Pa. on October 9th, 1808. His father, Dan Elwell, was a native of Massachusetts, and his mother, nee Nancy Prentice, of Connecticut.

They were of English extraction, and their lineage is traceable back to the time of Cromwell. Capt. Thos, Prentice, the sixth great grandfather of Judge Elwell, was a soldier in Cromwell's army. He came to this country and settled at Newton, Mass. in 1620. Dan Elwell was a carpenter and builder and a mathematician of considerable note. He was an active promoter of the cause of education in the community in which he lived, his own children having the best advantages which the common schools and an academy of high standing afforded. He married Nancy Prentice at Athens in 1800. She was a daughter of Dr. Amos Prentice, a surgeon in the army of the Revolution. Dr. Prentice suffered great loss at Groton, Conn., by the destruction of property by the soldiers of Bene dict Arnold, the traitor, he and his family barely escaping with their lives. He afterwards moved to Athens, Pa., where he died in 1805. The old homestead erected by him is still standing, and is known as "Elm Cottage." One of his sons, William, after whom the deceased was named, was a lawyer, whose books and papers fell into the hands of Dan Elwell. It was the perusal of these that inspired the young mind of the future jurist with the idea of becoming a lawyer. Dan Elwell died in 1868 at the age of 94 years, and his wife died in 1858 at the age of eighty-three years. They had eight children, William being the fourth child and third son. Two of the sons were clergymen, John an Episcopalian, and King a Methodist. The youngest son Edward, was a lawyer, and also became a Judge in Wisconsin. All are now dead.

William received a good academic education and continued his studies years after his school days. He began teaching school when but seventeen years of age, and taught for several years. In 1827, having previously acquired a knowledge of surveying, he was employed with the corps of engineers under Chief Engineer John Randall, engaged under the authority of the State in running advance or exploring lines on both sides of the North Branch of the Susquehanna River from the State line south, for the canal proposed to be constructed from the State line to tide water. The use of the compass and other practical knowledge acquired during the progress of that survey was afterward very beneficial to him in preparing ejectment cases for trial. In September, 1830, he commenced the study of law in the office and under the preceptorship of Hon. Horace Williston, a lawyer of the old school well versed in the principles of the common law. He came to the bar in the State of New York, and was familiar with equity practice and principles as administered by the courts of that State, under the administration of Chancellor Kent and other eminent judges of that day. On the 13th of February, 1833, Judge Elwell was admitted to the bar of Bradford county. He at once became the partner of his preceptor on equal terms, opened an office at Towanda and for the next sixteen years the firm continued in practice in the northern tier of counties.

In 1849 the senior partner was appointed judge of the district. From that time until 1862 the junior continued the practice alone, retaining all the business of the old firm. In 1841 Judge Elwell was elected to the House of Representatives for 1842 from Bradford county. He was chairman of the judiciary committee of that session. That committee was composed of men of mark. Four of its members were afterward president judges, one became chief justice of the Supreme Court of the State, one was Thaddeus Stevens, afterward known in Congress as the great commoner, and one of them was subsequently minister to a foreign government.

In the course of his practice Judge Elwell had been often employed to procure the release of persons who had been committed for the non-payment of debts. Impressed with the barbarity of the law which permitted arrest and imprisonment for such a cause, he, without a petition requesting it, and without any public agitation upon the subject, prepared, introduced and reported from his committee a bill to abolish imprisonment for debt and punish fraudulent debtors. The bill as it came from his hands, containing many sections, was passed and became a law on the 12th day of July, 1842, and stands upon the statute book to-day intact. The prison doors were at once thrown open and the poor debtor set free amid general rejoicing that a relic of barbarism had been swept away. The Judge was elected to the House for 1843, and served as chairman of the committee on ways and means, then the most important committee, owing to the depressed condition of the finances of the State.

In April, 1871, after a general and protracted strike of miners and other employees in the anthracite coal regions and all attempts at settlement or compromise had failed, he was unanimously chosen by a joint committee, representing both the operators and the miners as umpire to decide between them. He heard the parties for two days and rendered his decision in writing, which was acquiesced in by both sides. The strike was ended. Work was resumed—the rulings on all hands were considered eminently just, both as to control of the works and wages to be paid.

Judge Elwell resided in Bradford county, when, in 1862, he was elected president judge of the district composed of Columbia, Wyoming and Sullivan. In 1874 Columbia and Montour counties were made a separate district, of which he was continued the judge.

In 1862, A. Peckham, Esq., of Tunkhannock, was appointed by Gov. Curtin as judge to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Warren J. Woodward, and was nominated by the republicans against Judge Elwell. In 1872, the latter was again elected, without opposition, and in 1882, he was nominated by Democrats, Republicans and Greenbackers, and unanimously elected.

He had been, it is believed, more frequently called to hold special courts in other districts than any other judge in the state. His decisions, which have undergone review in the Supreme Court, have with few exceptions been affirmed. In the criminal courts no case was reversed. In equity and the Orphans' Court but three decrees were either reversed or modified. Among the cases tried before him were some of the most celebrated of the time, to-wit: The Williamsport bond case, amount involved more than half a million dollars; the city of Philadelphia against Fisher, involving title to 12,000 acres of land; the Cameron will case; the trial and conviction of the three Mollie Maguires for murder, whose execution, in connection with convictions in other counties, broke up the most desperate gang of murderers and outlaws that ever existed in this country.

The Judge was for 18 years president of the board of trustees of the State Normal School, of Bloomsburg, an institution in the prosperity of which he took a deep interest.

He was twice married; in 1832 to Clamana Shaw, daughter of Loren Shaw, Esq., of what is now Waverly, N. Y. By this wife he had four children one of whom survive their mother, who died October 5, 1840, to-wit: Clamana E., widow of P. H. Smith, who was State Senator from the Sheboygan Wisconsin District. Two died in infancy, and William, the oldest son, moved to Wisconsin, where he died a few years ago. He held the office of Mayor of the city of Sheboygan for several terms, was once nominated by the Democrats for Congress, and held many other offices of public trust and confidence.

On the 19th day of September, 1844, the Judge married Mary Louise Thayer, daughter of Col. E. Thayer, of Watkins, Schuyler Co., N. Y. Six children have been born of this marriage, four of whom are living: Ephraim W., agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Towanda; George E., attorney at law, editor of the COLUMBIAN; Mary L., married to N. U. Funk, attorney at law, and Charles P., professor of music.

In November, 1887, Judge Elwell caught a heavy cold while holding court in Danville, and his illness dates from that time. He spent the following winter in Florida, seeking renewed health, but without avail, and on July 31st, 1888, he tendered his resignation to the Governor.

A meeting of the Bar was held and arranged for a banquet to be tendered him, which was held at the Exchange Hotel on Friday, October 19th 1888. At that time there were gathered together a greater number of distinguished men than have ever assembled in the state, before or since, on a similar occasion. There were present: Hon. W. T. Davies, Lieutenant Governor, judges J. B. McCollum, of Montrose; P. D. Morrow, of Towanda, C. L. Pershing and D. B. Green, of Pottsville; E. Albright, of Allentown; C. E. Rice, Wilkes-Barre; R. W. Archbald, Scranton; F. B. Gowen, Philadelphia; H. W. Palmer, ex-Attorney General, of Wilkes-Barre; H. B. Payne, of Wilkes-Barre; J. B. Storm, Stroudsburg; Geo. R. Kaercher, Pottsville; E. M. Dunham, Laporte; Judge Edward Elwell, of Beaver Dam, Wis., and many others.

Col. Freeze, acting as toast-master, proposed the following toast:

OUR GUEST.—Closing a Judicial life fruitful with judicial learning, adorned with virtue, a true citizen, a steadfast friend, a benevolent man, we tender our retiring Presiding Judge this tribute to his character and worth."

In his opening remarks the Col. said, among other things:

"I have seen as advocates before him in our Court, the most distinguished lawyers of the state. I may be allowed to name on this occasion: Judge Jeremiah S. Black, Judge George W. Woodward, Judge John W. Maynard, Hon. Franklin B. Gowen, Gov. Henry M. Hoyt, Judge Edward Owen Parry, Judge F. Carroll Brewster, Hon. Francis W. Hughes, Mr. Atty. Genl. Palmer, with many other gifted and able men.

If I were to attempt a sketch of the Honorable William Elwell I should go back almost fifty years, and say that as a legislator, he is the author of the statute abolishing imprisonment for debt—as a lawyer, that more than a hundred cases in the books attest to his forensic contests before the Supreme Court—as a Judge, that he presided at the trial of the most important criminal and civil causes, which, during his incumbency, have been before the Courts of this State."

In closing his response to "The Judiciary" Judge C. L. Pershing paid this beautiful tribute to Judge Elwell:

"We have met in honor of the guest of the evening, and the occasion has suggested to me a grand historical scene which transpired many centuries ago, when a great judge was about to lay aside his robes of office. We are told that Samuel gathered the people at Gilgal, and standing in their presence said, "I am old and gray headed. Behold, here I am; witness against me before the Lord. Whose ox have I taken? or whose ass have I taken? whom have I defrauded? or whom have I oppressed? Of whose hands have I received any bribe to blind mine eyes therewith?" And no man in all that vast assembly stood up to accuse him. I do not believe that the line of able and incorruptible judges ended with Samuel. We all know that could the people of this judicial district be gathered in one great assemblage, that Judge Elwell could proudly stand before them and say, "I am now o'd and gray-headed," and then challenge them as Samuel challenged the people in his day, and that every voice would respond as was responded to Samuel, "Thou hast not defrauded us, nor oppressed us, neither has't thou taken aught of any mans hand."

Judge Elwell's reputation as a jurist is known throughout the State, and beyond its borders. He has not waited for posterity to build him a monument. It is one of John Ruskin's thoughts, that we should so act our parts on the stage of life, that careless of what monuments may be erected by others over our graves, each should build his own as he passes through the world; monuments by which men may be taught to remember, not where we died but where we lived. Judge Elwell has obeyed this injunction. He has built his own monument. In my county of Schuylkill, where he has in times past tried important cases in her Courts, he commands universal love and respect. It will ever be spoken to his honor, and to the honor of his children, and of the people to whom he was so long the minister of Justice, that after more than twenty-five years of able and conspicuous service, he voluntarily laid aside the Judicial ermine as pure and unspotted as it was the day on which he put it on."

Lieut. Governor Davies said:

"I first knew Judge Elwell when he was in the prime and vigor of life, in full practice at the Bar of Bradford county, in the year 1856. He was associated then with men who were considered giants in their day and time: Wilmot, Mercur, Overton, Adams, Watkins, Patrick, Pierce and others, all of them distinguished members of the Bar. Some of them acquired State and National fame. All of them have crossed the silent river. Not one of Judge Elwell's contemporaries of an early date are now living.

I entered his law office in the year 1859 for the study of law. He was at that period King of our Bar. As he appeared then before the bench in advocacy of his client's claims, he was a grand specimen of true physical and intellectual manhood, and was distinguished for the force and simplicity of his words and manner. He left us, and for twenty-six years he has been here amongst you, and during that time has borne the commission, with the broad seal of the Commonwealth, as Judge of your District.

Bradford county, however, has never surrendered Judge Elwell entirely to you, for her people always remembered that he was born on her soil, reared in her schools, his youth, early and middle life spent amongst them. His children were nearly all borne there; some of them lie buried in the Riverside Cemetery, on the banks of your own loved Susquehanna, near his old home.

Columbia county now rightfully claims him as one of her citizens. Bradford county also before and since he has left us, ever will claim him as her own, for among all creeds and classes of men with us, he has ever been looked upon with admiration and love."

Judge Morrow, of Towanda, himself then in failing health, closed his remarks with these words:

"It is said that "sailors on a voyage drink to friends astern until half way across, and then, it is to 'friends ahead.'" With your distinguished guest, and with some others here, it is "friends ahead." It is toward evening with some of us. The lights on the other shore are almost in sight. "It shall come to pass that at evening time it shall be light"—and shall I not add—"Lead, kindly Light?"

He saw the "lights on the other shore" some years ago.

Many other excellent speeches were made and letters were received from Hons. Wayne MacVeagh, F. Carroll Brewster, Judges Rockefeller, Woodward, Bucher, Walker, Furst, Harding, Ingham, Dresher and others.

During the past eight years Judge Elwell has been an invalid. In all that time no word of complaint has passed his lips. The beautiful traits of his christian character have shone out resplendent, and he has been patiently waiting to be gathered to his fathers. He was a pure, honest and incorruptible judge, a devoted husband, an indulgent and loving father and guide, a noble citizen, a saintly, godly man. He was a member of the Episcopal Church, and a regular attendant until his hearing failed.

The following minute was made in the records of the court on Tuesday:

In behalf of the Members of the Bar of this Judicial District and the sorrowing friends generally of the Hon. William Elwell it is announced: That we have heard with deep regret of his death.

This is not the time or place to do justice to his virtues as a man, or his merits as a lawyer and a Judge. As our friend we mourn his death. At a public meeting of the Bar to be held in the Court House, in Bloomsburg, on Friday the 18th inst. at 9 o'clock a. m., justice will be done to his memory. From there we will attend his funeral.

The clerk will inscribe the foregoing upon the records of the Court and send a copy of the same to his family with whom we sincerely sympathize in their affliction.

FASHIONABLE SOCIETY HAS A WELCOME SENSATION.

The Prospective Vanderbilt-Marlborough Wedding—Perry Belmont Again Into Politics—Another Yacht Contest in Prospect—American Athletics.

Special New York Letter.

Fashionable New York is not greatly surprised at the announcement of the engagement of the young Duke of Marlborough to Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, whose matrimonial troubles the public is familiar with. The engagement has for some time been foreshadowed. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt has arrived in town, and is busily engaged in putting in order the new residence on the corner of Madison avenue and Seventy-second street, purchased by her last year. The house is not an especially imposing one. It will be remembered that Mrs. Vanderbilt purchased it after declining the magnificent mansion at Fifty-second street and Fifth avenue conferred on her by her husband.

Rumor is busy in many ways regarding this notable wedding. Among all the alliances of American women with European nobles, none have approached nearer the throne of power than this of the great-granddaughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt. There is a certain propriety, after all, in this wedding. The original Duke of Marlborough was a self-made man. He was plain John Churchill, and was born without title or prospects. He was as great a man in his day as Commodore Vanderbilt was in his. He won a fortune and a dukedom by intrigue and his sword, just as Vanderbilt won a fortune by his financial genius. He gained the dukedom by the victory of Blenheim, one of the greatest and most important in English history. It was for that victory that the British Parliament erected for John Churchill at Woodstock, near Oxford, the princely mansion of Blenheim House, the present home of the bridegroom-elect. That homestead cost the English Government the snug sum of $2,500,000—and in those days that meant a great sum of money.

The present Duke of Marlborough is the tenth in descent from John Churchill. He came into his title on the death of his father in November, 1892. Besides being Duke of Marlborough, he is Marquis of Blandford, Earl of Sunderland, Earl of Marlborough, Baron Spencer of Wormleigh, Baron Churchill of Sandridge, Prince of the Holy Roman Empire and Prince of Mindelheim in Suabia. He was born November 13, 1871. He made his first speech in the House of Lords on August 15 last, on which occasion he had the distinction of making the formal address of the peers in reply to the Queen's speech. So great a distinction had never before been conferred on one so young, and according to the reports of the event the service was discharged with great credit. As matters stand in Europe, there is no title not a princely one greater than that of the Duke of Marlborough.

The young lady whom this powerful noble has sought in marriage is less than eighteen years of age. She is an heiress of many millions, but is not the greatest of American heiresses. She is a very accomplished and beautiful young woman. Not too deeply absorbed in the passion for dress, she is nevertheless tasty in her attire and always becomingly gowned and decorated. Her education has been mainly conducted under private tutors. She is fond of all sorts of athletic exercises suitable for girls. She is particularly proficient in riding, fencing and golfing. In fact, in the last named accomplishment she has taken an advanced position, while in fencing she has long been without an equal in her set. She has black hair inclined to curl, dark gypsy eyes and a clear, creamy complexion. Ever since her graduation from the nursery she has enjoyed great freedom. She has her own apartments, beautifully furnished, in the great house her mother occupies, and with a maid of her own she enjoys her liberty as fully as any reigning belle of mature years. Though not formally "brought out" Miss Consuelo has been a prominent figure in Newport society during the past season. It is believed that the wedding will in many respects surpass in detail any preceding event of the kind in this city.

The reappearance of Perry Belmont in active politics in connection with the late Democratic State Convention is attracting attention. Mr. Belmont had a short and brilliant career in Congress a few years ago. Doubtless, his youth rather than his ambition militated against his upward career at the time. He is still a young man, on the sunny side of life's prime, and with the experience of society and pleasure that naturally fits a man of keen intellect for a more active career. There are many inducements to lead him forward on the road of political ambition, and he undoubtedly has the ability and address to make a career, if he cares for it.

To say that the members of the New York Yacht Club are happy would be to faintly describe their feelings over the prompt receipt of a new English challenge for the America cup, made under circumstances that convey a flattering approval of the course of the club in the recent provoking controversy with Lord Dunraven. The new challenger for the America cup is Charles D. Rose, son of Sir John Rose, of London, and a member of the Prince of Wales's set. The challenge is made through the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, of which the heir to England's throne is a member. To the mind of the average New York sporting crank, it looks very much as if John Bull, after getting full details, was now quite as much disgusted with Dunraven's action as the most patriotic American has been. At any rate, we are to have a race next year for the cup, and on our own terms. The new challenger is a very different man from Lord Dunraven, who was always quibbling for terms, and inferentially throwing doubt on the fairness of the American yachting rules and courses. Mr. Rose asks no terms whatever. He leaves everything to the American Cup Committee. He is willing to sail anywhere and under any conditions we name. If this is not true sportsmanship, and a thorough compliment to American honesty, it would be hard to find them.

Mr. Rose challenges with a cutter of 89 feet on the water line. It bears the uneuphonious name of "Distant Shore." This means a vessel of the same size as the Defender. The English yacht is to be built by Designer Soper, of London, who has turned out some good heavy sea boats. There is no doubt that the new English boat will be very much such a boat as our own Defender. It is rumored that the English are now prepared to spend a big pile of money to win the cup in a fair fight. It is very probable that we will depend upon the Defender. Shrewd yachtsmen believe that she can be tuned up to go so fast next year that it will be practically impossible to build a boat to beat her. But some of our best yachtsmen thought the same thing of the Vigilant. Nat. Herreshoff may have some new ideas in that remarkable cranium of his. It may be that some of our rich young men will induce Designer Lewis Nixon to try his hand upon a speedy yacht. It is doubtful if anybody else would care to compete with the Herreshoffs.

The remarkable success of American athletes in the recent events at Manhattan Field have not ceased to be a matter of lively gossip. It is some years since that a shrewd observer called Americans the "modern Greeks." We are disposed at the present time to lead the world not only in originality and invention, but in manly sports of all kinds. In swiftness, dexterity and muscle, our athletes show equal ability. In fact, it is the general range of their qualities that give our champions their victories. But, after all, we are a very mixed people. There was English, Irish, Welsh, Scotch, German and Italian blood represented in our champion team, all improved, of course, by birth or residence in the free air of our glorious country.

MILTON S. MAYHEW.

"Watch Me!"

"Hi, Chimmy, see de mug soakin' his head!" yelled a street urchin at the corner of West and Barclay streets recently. "Watch me!" yelled Jimmy, another urchin, and he came down the street full tilt. The man soaking his head was a truck driver. He was holding his head under a pump and was pumping at the same time. On came Jimmy. He was barefooted and made no noise. He was also bare-headed and ragged. Two feet in the rear of the truckman he rose up and dived head foremost. He struck the truckman head-on just back of the hips. There was a wild yell, a kerplunk, and a big splash of water in the trough under the pump. The truckman was at the bottom. Jimmy was in the trough, too, but he was on top. There was a slashing of legs and arms. Jimmy slid out and scudded up the street. The truckman came up spluttering and cursing. He saw Jimmy scudding. The handiest thing to throw was a watermelon. It was a big one. The truckman grabbed it and succeeded in hurling it twenty feet after the scudding Jimmy, who was twenty yards away. As he threw it the truckman started to run. The man who owned the melon grabbed him. Jimmy's companion started to run too. He reached the melon, which had broken in four pieces, with a hop, skip, and a jump, and gathered up the fragments. Then he scudded after Jimmy. The truckman stopped and cursed. The owner demanded pay for the melon, and finally compromised on half value. The truckman shook himself, climbed on his wagon, whipped up his horse, and started down the street in the direction the urchins had gone. There was no report of a boy killed during the day, and it is not believed that he caught them.—New York Sun.

Spontaneous Combustion.

A writer in the Gartenlaube calls attention to the fact that spontaneous combustion may occur where it is least looked for—in silk, for instance. To increase the weight of silk it is often "bathed" so skilfully that one pound of silk carries three pounds of various "ingredients," the whole forming a combination which makes self-ignition possible. Instances are on record wherein packages of such "silk" broke into flame in warehouses, on shipboard, on railway cars, &c.

Shrewd politicians believe that women are exerting more influence in the politics of this country than ever before.

HINTS AND HELPS.

Air-slaked lime may be used freely on all land that is plowed. Its effect will be noticed for several years after its use.

Tomato vines should be staked in order to keep the fruit off the ground, thus not only avoiding the liability of rot, but also allow the fruit to ripen sooner.

The feeding and milking of the butter cow operates just as the training and racing of the horse. It tends to fix the performing habit—and heredity tends powerfully to transmit all fixed habits.

Every farmer is, or ought to be, interested in protecting his own products, and every pound of butter properly made and sold at a fair valuation is a paying factor in the interest of every other butter maker.

The Robertson cow ration, including a mixture of sunflower seed, gave an increase over older methods of feeding but not enough to pay for the extra trouble and cost, says the Vermont station director.

The only sure method of eradicating purslane is to get it up by the roots and allow no portion of the plant to remain in the ground. It is very difficult to destroy, and half-way measures will result simply in lost time.

The most successful poultry breeders separate pullets and cockerels as soon as they are half grown. They develop better, and in all respects do better. A few quarrelsome cockerels disturb the peace of a whole yard of fowls.

Animals cannot be fed by a rule. Each one must receive what it may require, and this can be only known by observation. Animals differ, and the quantity of food that may satisfy the demands of one may be insufficient for another.

By clearing out the underbrush and refuse, not only from the fences and other places, but where piles have accumulated in the forest, there will be less liability of forest fires. Green trees do not take fire quickly. It is the dry material that causes the damage.

Late cabbage should be set out as early in August as possible. Unless a rain comes soon after planting the process of watering the plants when they are put out must be resorted to, as it will not be advisable to defer transplanting too late. Early cabbage should be kept clean and the ground loose.

Irrigating With Fruit Cans.

Turning water upon the surface of the soil in dry, hot weather is very liable to bake it, so that the effect of watering is lost. Unsolder the bottoms of old fruit cans and sink one in each hill of tomatoes, cucumbers, or other plants. Water can then be turned into the can from which it will be conveyed at once to the roots of the plants, as illustrated, without a chance for the surface of the ground to become baked. The can being deep, there will be no drying out of the hill because of its presence.

Confined Fowls in Summer.

During the summer season many poultry keepers find it necessary to keep their fowls in yards. When thus confined it requires constant watchfulness to keep them in good health. If they have range they get by foraging what by nature they require, and this is the prime reason why there is less disease and larger egg production in an unconfined flock. Yarding prevents their getting fresh animal matter in the form of insects, mineral matter for producing egg shell, and grit for grinding their feed. If nature's cravings are not supplied it is only a matter of time when disease will follow. Gravel, crushed oyster shell and ground bone should form part of their daily bill of fare. These ingredients are absolutely necessary. If you cannot provide them buy a 25-pound package of crushed oyster shells or ground raw bone. Either sells for 2½ cents per pound. This may seem like high-priced food, but it will pay. The hens will eat very greedily of it at first, but after they once satisfy their craving they will eat only what is necessary.

Keep the yard clean. Spade up a fresh spot every day for them to wallow in and rid themselves of lice. Provide shade. The extreme heat of the sun is debilitating. If the hens cause trouble by flying over the fence, clip the long feathers of one wing. The clipped feathers will not be noticeable when the wing is folded.

Feed regularly and give a variety. Proper food means health and health means eggs. Avoid getting the hens fat—a fat fowl is susceptible to disease. Feed little or no corn during the summer months. Give bulky food. Grass and all garden greens are relished and should be given daily. When very long grass is given there is danger of clogging the crop. It is best to cut the grass and green food about one-half an inch in length, dampen it, and sprinkle meal, bran or ground oats over it. This makes an excellent noon meal. Watch the flock while it is eating; some fowls may starve while others are fattening. Do not allow a quarrelsome cock in the flock. Do not keep the growing fowls according to age and size. Keep plenty of clean fresh water within reach all the time. If any appear sick, add a tablespoonful of venetian red to a quart of drinking water. It is best not to dose too much, but fowls that are confined are susceptible to disease and an occasional tonic is necessary. Endeavor to keep the fowls tame and gentle. Treat them kindly, talk to them so they will become familiar with your voice, and they will not be frightened when you go among them.—Mary B. Keech.

Special Results.

It has taken farmers a long time to learn that there is no money in producing the general-purpose horse, or all-purpose cow, and many of them won't get out of the rut of all-purpose farming. Success along any line of farming calls for the production of the very best in that line, and nothing short of the very best thought, the closest application and intelligent labor can win success or deserve it.

THE RETURN OF PEARY.

THE FAMOUS EXPLORER BACK AGAIN FROM THE ARTIC.

Practical Failure of the Expedition—Sec[ond] —Valuable Sc[ience] Secured—Dee[ds] Shows that Pe[ary]

ABSOLUTELY

The safe return of the Peary Arctic expedition, which arrived at St. Johns, N. B., on the steamer Kite, on September 21, is a matter for general congratulation. It will be remembered that Peary did not return with the main expedition a year ago, remaining in the Arctic with a few men, to complete his explorations.

The Kite reached Peary's headquarters at Bowdoin Bay on August 3, and started on the return voyage September 1. The party spent the intervening time exploring. Messrs. Diebitsch, Salisbury, Dyche, Le Boutillier, and Walsh, who were on board, surveyed many miles of unknown coasts. They also secured two of the large meteorites discovered by Peary. Another weighing forty tons it was impossible to take away. Many specimens of deer, walrus, and northern animals, and birds, flowers, and lichens were secured. In fact, the Kite had on board the most valuable collection ever brought from the Arctic regions. It is mainly the work of Prof. Dyche, of Kansas University, who collected nearly 4,000 specimens of birds, eggs and animals in the neighborhood of Holsteinburg, besides which there were also secured during the Kite's cruise twenty-four walruses, three narwhal, twenty-five seals, thirteen polar bears, and a number of other animals. Peary secured many valuable meteorological data. He thoroughly surveyed Inglefield Gulf and the neighborhood.

All this is very satisfactory, inasmuch as Lieut. Peary failed in the main object of his expedition, owing to the loss of the supplies left during his last expedition, on which he relied. He suffered terrible hardships because of this loss, and came rather unpleasantly near repeating the experiences of the Greeley expedition. A short narrative of Peary's latest Greenland expedition is of absorbing interest. After the return of the Falcon in 1891, he reached his headquarters at the head of Bowdoin Bay September 6. He had some 500 pounds of provisions. Several deer and twenty walrus were killed in hunting expeditions. September was cold and stormy. On October 1 the bay was frozen over.

An expedition was dispatched to find the provisions catched by Peary the previous winter on the inland ice. It returned in four days, reporting that an extraordinary depth of snow had completely hidden the catches. Peary then, with Hensel and an Eskimo, made an effort to find the catches. He was caught in a terrible storm, the Esk[imo] died, and after ten days of suffering and privation he was forced to give up the provisions as lost. All of his pemmican, compressed pea soup, alcohol, biscuit and milk, in all a ton and a half, were gone. He felt like a sailor, cast away on a desolate shore. With unfaltering courage, however, the party prepared to carry out the object of the expedition.

The winter was spent in shooting deer, making sledge trips, and preparing for the expedition over the inland ice. An expedition to Cape York was made with great difficulty and danger.

The sun reappeared on February 17, 1895. Every possible preparation was made for the trip over the inland ice. On Monday, April 1, the expedition left the lodge at Bowdoin Bay, consisting of Peary, Lee, Henson, six Eskimos, and sixty-three dogs. Some time was spent in searching for the lost supplies, with the result that one cache was discovered, which added to the stock of rations. Three Eskimos, with a sledge and ten dogs, started back, while Peary and the rest of the party pushed on with three sledges and forty dogs. A violent wind storm was encountered, which nearly buried the expedition in terrific drifts. At the beginning of the fourth week the expedition was demoralized, and Mr. Lee had much trouble with his toe. The expedition was 8,000 feet above sea level. A number of dogs had given out, not thriving on raw, frozen meat.

A series of mishaps occurred after the expedition had passed the four hundredth mile of its journey. Sledges broke down, dogs died, and supplies were diminishing. The walrus meat gave out, and only eleven dogs remained at the end of the fifth week. The provisions were cached, as the dogs were hardly able to walk. Lee was left in charge of the camp, with instructions to feed the weakest dogs to the stronger ones, and Peary and Hensel, with four days' rations, pushed ahead in search of musk oxen. They returned exhausted without success.

Two alternatives now lay before them—to return at once, or to push forward in the face of probable starvation and death. It was unanimously resolved to go forward.

Loading everything upon the sledges, except provisions for the return trip, Peary and Hensel pushed forward, leaving Lee in charge of the camp. After two days of marching, a herd of musk oxen was discovered, and one bull, five cows and four calves were shot. This good luck practically saved the explorers from starvation, as Peary lived on musk ox flesh alone while Hensel spent three days returning for Lee, the Eskimos and the dogs. A push was then made for Independence Bay, which was reached after four days, with everybody exhausted.

After rest and a vain hunt for musk oxen, the party, with nine dogs and six-teen days' rations of musk ox meat for the dogs, and seventeen of deer meat for the men, started to return. The return was made in twenty-five days, but after incredible sufferings. The last of the provisions were consumed when twenty-one miles from the lodge at Bowdoin Bay. For ten days after their return the men were in a debilitated condition, troubled with swollen feet and legs, shortness of breath and constant diarrhoea. They were fully recovered when the Kite reached Bowdoin Bay on August 3.

Such is the record in brief of Peary's latest effort at polar explorations. The geographical results are meagre. The mapping of the Whale Sound region and the studies and ethnological collections of the arctic highlanders have been completed. Another year's meteorological records have been obtained. The scientific collections are very valuable, as has been stated.

R. L. SIMMS.

The Better Half Question.

There are few young men who do not expect to achieve some degree of success or greatness during the course of their lives. The young man who entertains this ambition should keep a weather eye open on the question of matrimony. It might be thrown out as a matter of advice that every young man ought to marry with the idea that he might become famous some day. The girl who will make a good wife while "they two" are living in a three-room flat will be pretty safe to be trusted to be a good wife in a brown-stone front, for the chances of happiness in a brown-stone front would not be very promising if the woman in question was not qualified to be a good wife in a three-room flat.

The married life of the great men of the world is full of lights and shadows. In fact, woman can make happy or miserable the life of a great man just as easily as she can that of a man "to fortune and to fame unknown." It all depends upon the woman—and the man.

Tea, dyspepsia and a scolding wife made the life of the famous essayist, Hazlitt, miserable. Tea, dyspepsia and a scolding wife—these three, but the greatest of these is a scolding wife. Fielding married a maid-servant and was miserable. Goethe married his housekeeper, and was contented and happy. Lessing married a widow, and was singularly happy—that is, he was, singularly, happy! Moliere, at 40, married an actress of 17, but it was a farce, and the curtain was soon rung down. Steele was twice married, and both times happily. The married life of Prince and Princess Bismarck is one of the world's sweetest stories, while Milton drew from his personal experience the material for a vigorous pamphlet advocating divorce. Abraham's married life was made very unpleasant by the jealousy of Sarah for Hagar.

If Julius Caesar and Alexander the Great had lived in Delaware they would have been whipped about three times a week, for they were chronic wife-beaters. Racine was about to turn monk through disgust at the failure of one of his plays, but was persuaded to marry, and he never regretted it. The music of Mozart's happy wedded life was sweeter than any he composed. The story of the married life of James Fenimore Cooper and his wife is one of the idyls in the annals of hymen. Richter married to get a good housekeeper, and he got one. And right here it might be suggested that the true sweet Marie is not she whose chief claim is that she has a face that is fair to see. The girl who can make biscuits that can be chewed without using a "jimmie" discovers by a very large per cent. the grand[eur] me who never saw the inside of a flour barrel.

Heine wrote [to a] friend that he was "frightfully" h[appy]. Cato married a poor girl that s[he] might be wholly dependent upon him, and found her disagreeably independe[nt]. David married the daughter of Saul, but had to get rid of her on account of her temper. Napoleon's misfortunes were intimately connected with the divorcement of Josephine.

The list might be gone through with and at the end we should find that before the great problem of human happiness the prince is as helpless as the peasant and the philosopher as the mechanic.—Kansas City Journal.

They Were Game Eggs.

The dismal foggy weather outside, the air of darkness and despair within, made the Tombs seem this morning like the Old Bailey in dear old London, don't cher know, says the New York Evening Sun.

Jimmie Fogarty stood dispirited at the bar, and knew he had no show. Fogarty lives at No. 201 Mott street, and he went down to Catharine slip yesterday to see his old friend, Martin Hennessy.

Hennessy gave him a beautiful lot of eggs, the whole week's output of his Red Hackle hens, a strain of the gamest chickens in the Fourth ward. For Fogarty has a Dominick hen in the coal bin at No. 201 Mott street that has been keeping a door knob warm for four days past.

Unfortunately, while on his way home he stopped at Doonan's on Cherry street, and at Mulvyhill's on Chatham Square, to expatiate on the virtues and gameness of Hennessy's hens, and what wonders of the cockpit the eggs he had would be when the Dominick left the door knob and became the mother to them.

Policeman Dowling found him at 8 o'clock, dead drunk and weeping over the crushed eggs in the basket that were shattered like his hopes.

"I wor not drunk, yer anner," he said in court this morning. "I wor not drunk at all."

"But your eggs were all broken," said Justice Taintor.

"Well, sor, it was no fault of mine. Those eggs were so game they fought each other in the basket until they was all broke."

"That was no excuse for your getting drunk. I shall fine you $5," said the Justice.

"The devil fly away with Hennessy's hins," said Fogarty, as he forked out the $5. "See what a schrape their game eggs got me in."

SILVER FOUND NEAR MUNCY.

Discovery of James Mitcheltree, a Williamsport Mineral Hunter.

Recently there was found in the earth in the vicinity of Muncy a nugget of lead ore which is 80 per centum pure. There was also found a cropping of silver ore in the same neighborhood. Out of a teaspoonful and a half of this crushed silver ore two particles of the pure metal were obtained about the size of No. 5 shot, besides enough to plate a small piece of steel. Neither the extent of the silver or lead deposit is known, but the outcroppings of the latter show a vein of about seven inches. It is stated that as soon as the land which contains these valuable minerals can be secured by the interested parties, excavations will be made to determine the value of the discovery.

These minerals were located by James Mitcheltree, one of Williamsport's older citizens, who lives on Meade street, above Grove, where, when not engaged in mineral hunting, he makes baskets. For twenty seven years he lived in the west, where his whole time was spent in the location of minerals. On Monday of last week he was called to Muncy by interested parties, and from Tuesday morning until Thursday night he was engaged in locating the exact position of these outcroppings, the presence of which he had discovered while hunting on his own account north of Muncy, a year ago last spring. Last spring he spent four weeks hunting in the country and again came upon the above mentioned deposit. It was after this trip that he made known his discovery.

A Sun reporter visited Mr. Mitcheltree at his home yesterday, where he saw the specimens of silver and lead ore found near Muncy. The latter specimens were unusually rich, being almost pure, while the former corresponded to the specimens in his collection of western silver ore. He said that he had obtained crucibles wherewith to make another and more thorough test of the more valuable ore, which would be done in the near future.

The mineral hunter explained to the reporter how he located the minerals. His implements consist of pointed pieces composed of just the right proportions of various metals which will be attracted by the various minerals of the earth. In a cylinder attached to these magnets is a solidified electric battery.

A bent stick held loosely in the hands is carried by the hunter. The construction of the whole is so delicate that the presence of minerals is readily indicated by the movement of the "divining rod" in the direction of the mineral. With his implements the presence of gold, silver, lead, copper, iron, and petroleum may be discovered. Mr. Mitcheltree states that Lycoming county contains ores of many kinds, but whether they are in abundance he is unable to state. He leaves the capitalist to find this out. He said that the people for whom he located the silver and lead outcroppings appear very much in earnest and that they intend to find out just how rich the deposits are.—Williamsport Sun.

The post office at Milford, Pike county, was robbed on Friday night, October 4th, and stamps and money to the amount of $500 was taken. The safe in the office had been blown open and the money and stamps taken therefrom.

TELL-TALE FACES.

PINCHED AND CAREWORN,

As Worn by Many American Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

The "tell-tale face" is worn by many American women, and is a symptom of symptoms, a signal of distress.

While women do all in their power to hide their condition, the practised eye soon detects the trouble.

When pains and aches are felt in every part of the body, when faintness, dizziness, and that bearing-down feeling prevail, when loss of sleep and appetite are reducing flesh daily, when the society of friends is irksome, and the hopeless "blues" predominate, then the face is pinched, haggard, and careworn, and prompt relief is necessary, or a beautiful life will be sacrificed.

An American woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, a student of women and their diseases, twenty years ago succeeded in producing an absolute cure for all diseases of women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands to-day as it did then, pre-eminent.

Mrs. H. Wampler, of Barabo, Wis., whose letter we were permitted to publish last year, writes that she hopes Mrs. Pinkham will continue to use her name, as the publication in newspapers of the account of her own wonderful cure and relief from years of misery has been the means of influencing many suffering women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and become well like herself. Mrs. Wampler feels, and rightly, too, that in this way she is doing a great good.

is just the thing for business and professional men who have a few letters to write and want those letters to look well. Doctors and lawyers, especially, find it very handy. Children easily and quickly learn to write on it.

It will do just as good work as the $100.00 machines. Of course it is not quite as fast. It is simply constructed, easily learned, easily operated.

We'll send you a letter written on it—along with a special circular—if you'll send us your address.

COLUMBIA COUNTY FAIR.

The Most Successful in its History.

LARGER ENTRIES THAN EVER BEFORE.

The Attendance on Friday Was the Largest Ever on the Grounds.

The 41st annual exhibition of the Columbia County Agricultural Association has come, gone and is to-day a matter of history. For weeks and months the people in every section (not only of this, but adjoining counties) have been anxiously looking forward to, and making preparations for this event and now it is all over. This Society has always had in the past, has now, and if the same efficient management is continued, always will have the reputation of giving the best exhibition in Central Pennsylvania. This fair has an enviable reputation in all parts of the State, and that is the reason that whilst other ones are poorly patronized, this one is crowded with visitors. Through their many years of management, they have convinced the public that they can attend this fair without fear of being buncoed, or swindled out of their money. They have made a rule, (and strictly adhered to it,) that no games of chance are allowed on the grounds, and with efficient police force this order is rigidly enforced. We have said that they have the reputation of giving the best fair in this section, and all who attended the one just closed will agree with us in the statement that this one eclipsed all their former efforts. The entries in all the departments were the largest, and on Friday the crowd of visitors the most numerous in the history of the association.

In class No. 1, horses, there was a large exhibition, consisting of all kinds of horses, adapted to all kinds of work. Mares with colts by their side and even the far west was represented by "Birdie," a burro, owned by Mrs. Waller, and whose familiar form and voice is known to all the people of the town. The "Maplehurst" stock farm displayed a fine lot of horses, as did many other private owners.

Blooded cattle, class No. 2, was well filled, in fact there was a larger display than ever before. It consisted of all kinds of cattle known to herdsmen. Durham, Devons, Holstein, Jerseys, Guernseys, Ayershires and graded and native cattle were there in profusion. The pens were all filled and the cattle showed careful attention and good breeding. H. W. Hess of Mifflinville, had an exhibition from his stock farm 14 head of Jersey cattle which were greatly admired. The display of sheep was fine and included many specimens of all the different kinds. The swine, of which there was an abundance, came in for a great deal of attention, and they were deserving of it too. They included Jersey Red, Essex, Berkshire, Chester White, Poland Chinas, Cheshires, and were all excellent specimens of the different breeds. P. K. Patterson of Greenwood, exhibited a Chester White pig which weighed 565 pounds, as well as some Chester White and Poland China ones six months old weighing 200 lbs. The display of poultry, whilst it was large, was not up to that of former years, especially that exhibited by residents of the county. The pens of M. E. Walker and T. C. Hill of Shickshinny, J. S. Noblet, and Frank P. Cosper of Pittston, Harry Wilkins of Mifflinburg, as well as many others were well represented with fine specimens of all the leading kinds of chickens.

On the whole, the display of stock reflected great credit to the farmers and showed that they were awake to the necessity of the times. The result of the abundant harvest was demonstrated by the large exhibition of all the different kinds of grain, and notwithstanding the dry season, the display of vegetables was larger and finer than one had reason to expect. Nearly all the vegetables known to the gardener were there, and the size of the potatoes, pumpkins, beets, &c., were enough to make one imagine they lived in Southern California, the land of immense growth. This was not a good year for fruit, and hence the display was not as large as in former years, but what there was of it, was fine and excellent specimens of the various kinds. There was bread and butter, pies and cakes, jellies and jams galore. Many were the compliments paid them and their manufacturers. The jellies and jams were made from every fruit that could be "jammed or jelled"; and judging from their appearance there were many sumptous feasts awaiting those who were fortunate enough to assist in devouring them. Some one suggested that the association should give the judges of these articles the services of a specialist on dyspepsia free of charge.

This brings us to the ladies' department, where there was shown knit and patchwork, crochet, embroidery, drawn work, painting, decorative art, &c. It is simply impossible to describe this. Only by seeing it could any idea of the amount and beauty of it be conveyed. It is sufficient to state that never in the history of the association was the display as large, or the work upon it as fine. It showed patient work on the part of the exhibitors, and they deserve the thanks not only of the association, but the public as well, for this interesting and beautiful part of the fair.

For the benefit of the farmers there were wagons, traction engines, threshers, plows, cultivotors, feed cutters, and in fact machinery of all kinds. It was critically examined by them which indicated that the farmers of Columbia county were far above the average in intelligence. In this class might be specially mentioned the feed cutter, which was patented and manufactured by White & Conner of Orangeville, and the Peerless traction engines, which was showed by our townsman George Hughes. The Hamburg Plow Co. showed a plow which was made in 1776 and which appeared very crude beside the one of 1895.

The Millville Wagon Co. had several of their wagons on the ground for inspection, as did J. R. Ritter, and A. A. Hopp of Mifflinburg, and J. R. Rice of this place.

The tent occupied by Creasy & Wells, lumber dealers, was crowded all the time with parties inspecting the fine samples of lumber they had on exhibition. It consisted of specimens from nearly every State in the Union, as well as from South America. Boards from Maine were standing along side of those from Georgia, and California had a representative beside Virginia. They were highly complimented on their exhibit.

The American Damper Regulator Co. was represented by one of their machines which attracted the attention of those interested in factories.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL DISPLAY

was the finest ever shown on the grounds and was the work of the manual training room. It was constantly surrounded by parties who were eager to inspect it, and loud in their words of commendation. It was the work of the little folks, as well as that of those more advanced in years and experience, and consisted of moulding in clay, drawing, blending of colors, several manufactured artlcles, and a telephone in working order which was wholly made by the students. It was one of the most interesting portions of the exhibition.

West and Holgate showed the duplex pumps for bicycles which are peculiarly adapted to the work for which they are intended.

The displays of pianos and organs which always attracts visitors was large and the space reserved for them was always crowded with people anxious to hear the music. J. Saltzer had double the space and showed a fine lot of pianos, organs and sewing machines.

Mrs. Anstock, also had on exhibition the celebrated Palace organ Standard and Home Sewing Machine and the crowd of people who surrounded her space were pleased with her display.

The display of lamps by J. H Mercer, was unusually fine and consisted of a large lot of fine ones, which was a representation of the stock he has for sale at his store on Main Street.

Bryfogle Bros., are never behind when it comes to making a display, and their business was represented by a large lot of palms, ferns, begonias, cut flowers &c., which were interspersed with vegetables of all kinds.

Hess Bros., Jewelers, advertised their business by means of a fine music box, whilst McKillip and Capwell displayed some fine work in photographs.

Alexander Bros. & Co., had a large space in the North East corner of the main exhibition building, where they displayed in an artistic manner a large line of tobacco, segars and smokers articles.

For the benefit of the bicycle riders there was a display by the Bloomsburg Cycle Works and W. H. Crossly. Strangers were surprised to find that we had such an industry in our town. and also at the high grade of the wheels manufactured by them.

The children had a good time on the exhibit of the Bloomsburg Furniture Co. which consisted of a patent swing. It was constantly crowded.

D. F. Weiss & Co., interested the farmers in their never slip tie, aud from the sample of work done by it, demanded and received their attention.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company was represented by Mr. Bolich, who had several fine ones on exhibition. He was assisted by E. L. Meyers, and J. B. McKinney.

Mears & Co., and David Savage, entertained, and instructed the ladies as they commented upon the merits of their washers. And each of them had a large and attentive audience.

For the benefit of horse owners, C. S. Furman, showed a large lot of robes, harness, blankets &c. His display was not only large but beautiful. Among the other there was a Saskatchewan robe which had fur on the outside, oil cloth in the middle, and was nicely lined. This made it not only water, but air proof. He also displayed a ladies' side saddle which bore an inscription announcing that it was made in 1770.

The cold weather is coming on, and L. E. Whary, W. F. Hartman, and Eshleman & Wolf, each displayed the latest paterns in stoves &c. It was a fine display, and had they been in working order on Thursday would have been greatly appreciated by the crowd.

James E. Reichard, showed the farmers what he could do in the line of baling hay, by having several samples of his work on exhibition.

The "U" bed spring manufactory was represented by having one of their springs on exhibition.

The Miscellaneous class which includes odds and ends which it is impossible to classify, contained as it always does, a large lot of curios. Among the number was a large lot of articles manufactured from anthracite coal, guns used by our great-grand fathers, a sampler made by Matilda Willits when she was 10 years old, which was said to be 200 years old. The Hoppler first used in the Columbia County prison, candle sticks 150 years old, dishes from 60 to 150 years old. The smallest bible ever printed, lot of newspapers consisting of Bloom Register May 20, 1827.

Columbia County Register Jan. 24, 1837, contained the news that they had a two foot snow that day, and Jacob Creveling offered a reward of six cents for the apprehension of an apprentice. There was also copies of Col. Co. Democrat, 1838, 1861, Danville Intelligence 1831. There was also a caricature of Revolutionary times after the style of Judge.

The attractions were numerous and if every one did not find something suited to their taste it is indeed a wonder. The magic swing, which baffled the investigation of nearly every one was constantly crowded, and the children found lots of amusement at the merry go round. The snake charmer, sword swallower, giant, dwarf, fat woman &c. were all on the ground and could be seen for ten cents. Phonographs, kintephones &c. entertained a lot of people, whilst others repaired to the photograph galleries to obtain a souvenir of the occasion. The same old coon, and babies, were there and took the pelts from the balls thrown at them good humoredly, whilst the fellow who tried to smoke the cigars got sick. The whip men, candy vender, &c. were all there and done a thriving business. The exhibition which took place every day near the grand stand was witnessed by a large crowd and enjoyed by many of them. It consisted of roller skating, feats of contortion and skirt-dancing, and were good exhibitions of that kind of work.

Hood's Saved My Life

I Can Honestly Say This

"For years I was in a very serious condition with catarrh of the stomach, bowels and bladder.

Mr. W. R. Young, Potter's Mills, Pa.

I suffered intensely from dyspepsia, and in fact was a miserable wreck, merely a skeleton. I seemed to go from bad to worse. I really wished I was dead. I had no rest day or night. I did not know what to do. I had taken so much medicine of the wrong kind that it had poisoned me, and my finger nails began to turn black and come off. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had faith in the medicine, and it did more for me than all prescriptions. I have gradually regained perfect health, am entirely free from catarrh of the bowels, and pain in my back. My recovery is simply marvelous." W. R. YOUNG, Potter's Mills, Pa.

H. A. M'KILLIP,
10-18-4t. Auditor.

WE are like the whimsical trader, when we scour the world for merchandise. We don't buy until we're certain that the style, material and prices are right. We search until we find correct merchandise, then buy. Consumers should do likewise. Make the rounds if you please, buy where styles, materials and prices are right. We're certain you'll buy here. We advertise what we have to advertise. Never exaggerate about it—describe it frankly, then stop.

Coats and Wraps.

They sold fast last week but we will not be out of sizes. New ones coming in. We always keep up our stock all sizes and all prices. We can suit the most fastidious. They are made by the best of makers, cut to fit, and style correct and latest. When we say we are sole agents for S. Rothschilds & Bro. of New York, who make a specialty of making coats for large ladies, it should be enough to convince you that what we say is correct. All we ask is an inspection of our stock.

Underwear.

A great deal of difference in underwear. If anything is annoying it is to have your underclothes not to fit. Too large it is an uncomfortable feeling, and comes to far under the arms; too small is just as bad. Our underwear is made to fit and wear well. Ladies', men's, children's and misses', all grades, from cotton to wool, at most any price.

Wrappers.

Just the same story to tell in regard to this as underwear. They are made by "The Keystone Wrapper Co"; that is sufficient. Fits guaranteed; and the best in the market for the money.

Hosiery.

Do you like a good stocking? One that is absolutely fast black? One that fits not too long in the foot, lee curved and made to fit the foot? A stocking that will outwear any thing in its line. Try one Y. D. Hosiery for ladies and men. Nothing better in the market, and once worn you will have nothing else.

Knit boots.

They are far superior to the old felt boot. Will outwear them two to one. Then why not buy them? They are the same price. They are knit, when done are twisted the right size, then shrunken, so can not shrink. All wool, wears like iron. Ask to see the Mishawaka "Ball Brand" knit boot.

Biscuits.

Want something more wholesome than bread? They are made of the whole wheat shredded. Can be used in any style. Served for breakfast with sugar and cream heated in the oven, and served as toast etc.

Something entirely new. Try them and you will always use them. 15c. lb.

GEORGE W. SUPLEE DEAD.

Again we are called upon to chronicle the death of another of our respected and esteemed citizens. It rarely happens that one issue of a paper contains the intelligence of the departure of three of the prominent residents of a town. George W. Suplee the subject of this article, died at his residence on West Main street, Tuesday night, at half past eleven o'clock. He was born in Chester county, Pa., July 27, 1825, and hence at the time of his death was aged seventy years, two months and sixteen days. Mr. Suplee resided in the above named county until he was nine years of age, when his parents moved to Philadelphia, and shortly afterwards to Montgomery county, where he continued to reside until he had arrived at the age of thirty-three years, at which time he purchased a farm in Anthony township, Montour county, upon which he lived eight years. This he sold, and he purchased one in Madison township, this county, at which place he resided until April, 1886, when he moved to Bloomsburg. He was married April 4, 1852, to Miss Sarah Hamer, of Montgomery Co. who with Antoinette, wife of Cyrus Demott of Madison township, Gertrude, wife of Albert Girton of Hemlock township, Horace G. of Bloomsburg, and Annie, wife of J. B. Nuss of Mainville, are left to survive him.

He has for a long time been a patient sufferer from sciatica rheumatism, and for about one and a half years his illness has been very severe, so much so as to alarm his friends. During the past four or five weeks he has been unable to leave his home. He was a consistant member of the Baptist church, and although he attended and contributed to the support of the one in this place, he continued to hold his membership in the one at White Hall. Mr. Suplee was an honest, upright, conscientious man, and by his consistent life exemplified the religion he professed. His word was as good as his bond, and in all his transactions with his fellow men lived the teachings of the golden rule. He was a man who will be missed, not only by his family, but by the church, and society in general. The funeral will be held at his late residence Saturday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, and be in charge of Rev. G. E. Weeks and Rev. H. C. Mure, of White Hall. The interment will be in the Rosemont Cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS.

One of the Talented Young Ladies of this Place, Weds a Plymouth Gentleman.

Wednesday evening Oct. 9th, 1895, one of the prettiest weddings ever solemnized in this town took place at the Methodist Episcopal Church on Third Street. The contracting parties were Miss Harriet H, daughter of Mrs. Clarissa Peacock, of Fifth Street, and Mr. H. Russel Williams of Plymouth. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. C. Connor and was witnessed by a very large audience. Exactly at six o'clock, the time appointed, the party led by the ushers entered the church and passed up the aisle to the wedding march which was beautifully executed by Mrs. Fred Holmes. Upon the arrival of the bride and her party at the altar they were met by the groom and his best man who had entered by the other aisle, when the beautiful marriage service with the ring of the Methodist Episcopal church was performed. The bride was given away by her brother, C. C. Peacock, Esq. The maid of honor was Mabel Peacock, niece of the bride; best man Dr. Herbert Williams, of Philadelphia, brother of the groom; bridesmaids Miss Bertha Williams, sister of the groom, of Tamaqua; Miss Elizabeth Straw, of Wilkes Barre; Miss Lettie Seligman, of Mahanoy City, and Miss Elizabeth Low, of Lime Ridge; and the pretty little flower girls were Clarissa and Helen Peacock, nieces of the bride. Messrs. Edward Jenkins, of Plymouth, Frank Ikeler, Frank Pursel and Robt. Hartman, of this town, were the gentlemanly ushers.

The bride was becomingly attired in a beautiful white silk, and carried a bunch of beautiful white roses. The attendants were also handsomely dressed, which with the floral decorations of the church presented a scene seldom witnessed. One of the decorations which deserves special mention, and which was admired very much for the artistic manner in which it was arranged was two hearts and an arrow of flowers.

After the ceremony had been performed the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride on Fifth street where a reception was held, and elegant refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams left on the late train on the D. L. & W. Rail Road, and upon their return will reside at Plymouth. The presents received were not only numerous but unusually beautiful and costly. Among the guests present were: Mrs. E. L. Williams, mother of the groom, Mrs. H. D. Smith, and Miss Effie M. Williams, sisters of the groom, of Tamaqua; Mrs. Jos. Seligman, Dr. J. H. Hagenbuch and wife, Mahanoy City; Miss Harrington, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Fowler, Willow Springs; Dr. and Mrs. E. W. M. Low, Miss Helen Low, E. E. Low, Geo. Low, Lime Ridge; J. J. Robbins, Misses Hattie and Laura Robbins, Wilkes-Barre; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Christian, Mr. J. E. Eves, Miss Clara Eves, Millville; Mrs. Frank Masters, Sereno; Mrs. Frank Jackson, Berwick; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Llewellen, Shamokin; J. Shannon and wife, Mrs. John Rote, Misses Gaskin and Lyon, Danville; Rev. Gideon H. Day and wife, Riverside; Fred Davenport, Blanche Davenport, Harry Nesbit, Clara Nesbit, Plymouth; The Misses John, Mainville; Mrs. Deborah White, Almedia; Mrs. Jos. Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Wagner, Esq., Assistant Superintendent of said estate, and continue with the Board on their tour of inspection of the lands and collieries in Schuylkill and Columbia Counties.

One object of the visit is to locate a summer home for the younger children of Girard College on one of the farms in Schuylkill county, near Girard Manor.

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11th, 1895.

President Cleveland will make a short stay in Washington, as he is due at the Atlanta Exposition next week. When he returns from Atlanta he will settle down to the winter's work, and he will find plenty of it on hand. In addition to other important work which he must take up, he will have only a little more than a month within which to write his annual message to Congress, and it will probably be one of the most difficult messages he has ever had to write. The message, although addressed to Congress, will really be written to the country, as nobody knows any better than the President that nothing short of overwhelming public sentiment will be sufficient to make the republican Congress accept his recommendations as to legislations, however wise they may be.

When a man makes a gigantic ass of himself the best thing he can do is to keep quiet about it. Some men don't know enough to do this. One of them is Lord Sackville West, who was British Minister to the United States until given his passport, in 1888, by Secretary Bayard, who acted under the instructions of President Cleveland, for having allowed himself to be trapped into writing a letter to be used as a republican campaign document. That Sackville should be sore is natural. But in raking up the whole business in a pamphlet published for distribution among his friends he has not vindicated himself; he has only confirmed the previously held opinion of him, and shown that the years which have passed since his humiliating departure from America have added nothing to his discretion. The dime museum manager who offered him an engagement then would be glad to give him double the money now and as a freak he would unquestionably draw well.

Hon. Amos Cummings, able newspaper man, Tammany Democrat, and all around good fellow, spent a day in Washington this week. Everybody in Washington will be glad when Amos comes back to Congress, and, judging from what he says, there is little doubt of his coming. This is the way he puts it: "My nomination for Congress to fill the vacancy in one of the New York districts is, of course, a subject of satisfaction to me. I feel complimented, and, further, I feel confident of being elected. There seems to be no doubt of democratic success in the city of New York; Roosevelt has made sure of that. It now looks as if the democracy would carry the district in which I run, as well as the city of New York, by a fair majority."

Kentuckians who come to Washington all talk one way about the result of the present campaign. Mr. W. N. Cox, of Louisville, says: "It takes no prophet to tell what the result will be. Hardin will be elected governor by 25,000 majority, and this is a conservative estimate. Senator Blackburn is as good as re-elected to succeed himself. He is still making speeches, but he might as well put a stop to his oratory, for enough votes to elect him have already been secured."

Perhaps it is merely a coincidence, but all the same it is worthy of more than a passing notice that the arrival of the new Hawaiian minister. Mr. Castle, in Washington was very closely followed by a sensational story about the alleged designs which Japan has upon Hawaii, and the fears of the present Hawaiian government that those designs will be realized and the islands be gobbled up by Japan. Last year it was England that was frightening the government of Hawaii. There is just about as much danger from Japan now as there was from England last ysar. Doubtless either or both countries would be glad to have the islands, but in view of the very positive declaration of Congress, that no foreign interference with Hawaii would be tolerated by the United States, it is not probable that either of them has seriously entertained any designs upon the islands. If, as many believe, these stories are set afloat by those in the employ of the present Hawaiian government for the purpose of influencing public sentiment in this country President Dole and his advisers are being misled.

Secretary Carlisle left Washington to day for Boston, where he will deliver a financial address before the Reform Club Saturday night.

Senator Gorman's charge that the republican candidates for governor of Maryland was named for that position by the B. & O. railroad is the political sensation of the week, and it has greatly injured the chances of the republican ticket in Maryland. Mr. Gorman is not the man to make charges unless fortified with the facts to back them up. He knew what he was talking about when he made that charge, or he would not have made it; and the Maryland voters may be trusted to do the rest. The State will remain in the democratic column.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

OLD INDIAN FORTS.

Captain Buckalew's Paper Before the Wyoming Historical Society at Wilkes-Barre.

At a meeting of the Wyoming Historical Society held in Wilkes-Barre October 10th, Captain John M. Buckalew, of Fishingcreek, this county, read an interesting paper on historic forts. Extracts from the paper giving the sites of the forts were as follows:

Fort Augusta was built in 1756, at the forks of the Susquehanna, at present Sunbury. It was built on lands owned by the Indians, whose title was not extinguished until the Fort Stanwix treaty of 1768. It was from Fort Augusta that Col. Hartley's expedition to Queen Esther's town was planned, resulting in the destruction of the place and the defeat of the Indians on the north branch above Wilkes-Barre. It was here that Col. Plunkett organized his expedition against Wyoming.

Fort Jenkins was situated on the Susquehanna, midway between present Berwick and Bloomsburg. It was a log stockade built in 1777, garrisoned by 30 soldiers. It was the centre of numerous engagements with the Indians.

Fort Wheeler was built on Fishingcreek, about three miles from its mouth, by Lieut. Moses Van Campen, the well known Indian killer. It was here that in 1780 his father, and Moses Van Campen, Peter Pence and others were taken prisoners by the Indians. While in camp near Wyalusing the prisoners succeeded in freeing themselves and killing their savage but sleepy captors.

Fort McClure, situated about one mile above the mouth of Fishingcreek, at present Bloomsburg. It was built by Lieut. Moses Van Campen 1781, as a support to Fort Wheeler.

Bosley's Mills, in the forks of Chilisquaque creek, present Washingtonville, Montour county. The mills were stockaded and garrisoned.

Fort Freeland, four miles east of present Watsontown. Probably built in 1777. Nearly all of the Freeland family were killed by the Indians here. The stockade was captured by a force of 300 British and Indians in 1779.

Fort Rice at Montgomery's, built in 1779. It was well preserved to this day, and was a formidable defense, resisting in 1780 an attack of 300 British and Indians.

Boone's Mills, between Watsontown and Milton, built and fortified by Capt. Hawkins Boone, who was detached from duty with the Revolutionary army to assist in defending the frontiers and who was killed by the enemy.

Other forts touched on by Capt. Buckalew were:

Fort Schwartz, near Milton.
Fort Menninger, in Union county.
Fort Brady, near Muncy.
Fort Muncy, near Hall's station.
Fort Antes, opposite Jersey Shore.
Fort Horn, near McElhattan.
Fort Reid, present Lock Haven.

Judge Woodward presided at the meeting and a vote of thanks was tendered the Captain.—News Item.

The State Campaign.

Although nearly a month intervenes until November 5, election day, the more rabid of the Republican party organs have already declared to their own satisfaction the ignominious defeat of the entire State ticket by an overwhelming majority, graciously, however, granting to us the one member of the Superior Court bench which is provided for by the alleged law that created this new tribunal. To the shrewd observer of State affairs these extremely partisan prognostications are humorous in no slight degree. The close political student recognizes the fact that never in the history of Pennsylvania did the Democracy have a better opportunity to win, and it is conceded by the fairminded of this class that an energetic canvass for the balance of the campaign will bring out the full Democratic vote, and this, aided by the independent thinkers of the State, who are neither ruled by the Junior United States Senator or the Administration and Philadelphia Combine contingent of the Republican party, will place the stamp of approval on the ticket selected at the Williamsport convention.

This conclusion has not been arrived at simply after a rapid glance over the field, but the course of the Republican party in this campaign and its party organs plainly shows that a Democratic victory is greatly feared by them. It has no doubt been noticed that during the few weeks of this campaign already passed the Republican party organs, always so eager to enter into a campaign of mud slinging and defamation of character, have confined themselves almost entirely to discussing and lauding reform propositions that were promulgated by their State Chairman, who heretofore has been the thorn in the side of all Republican party reformers. The make up of the Democratic State ticket has been left severely alone, simply for the reason that to have said anything but that which was good would have endangered any chance of Republican victory. The record of the last session of the State Legislature is still green in the memories of the voters of the Commonwealth, and from a Republican standpoint it would have been suicidal to have entered into a campaign that would have taken for its text the record of the Republican party of the State during the past year. Attempts have been made to ring the changes on the time-worn doctrines and pledges of their party, but these fall very flat when there is so much material that could be analyzed with profit to the State and interest to the taxpayers. It would never have done to refer to any recent exploits of the party, for the reason that it would be followed by a general expose of mismanagement and gross expenditure of public funds. For that reason the candidacy of Hon. Benjamin F. Meyers is looked upon with a seriousness that is truly flattering to the minority party. It has been noticed through the length and breadth of the State that while such reputable and conservative newspapers as the Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, and others of equal merit have been severely scoring the administration of the financial affairs of the Commonwealth, and condemning the manner in which the funds of the people have been squandered by a profligate Legislature and officials who work simply for the purpose of gaining selfish party ends, the administration of the Treasurer's office has been in the direct charge and management almost exclusively of the Republican candidate for Treasurer, as it is a well-known fact that Treasurer Jackson has spent very little of his time in the department during his term. Is it any wonder that under these conditions a man with such an enviable record as Mr. Meyers should be feared by both factions of the Republican party machine?

As for the Judgeship contest, it is pretty nearly understood that the people of the State will vote in such a way as to show their condemnation of the disgraceful factional fights in the Republican party and the unseemly proceedings that led to the creation of this Court. The six honorable and distinguished jurists placed in nomination by the Democratic party came before the people in an honest, straightforward and fearless manner, backed only by their reputations as lawyers and Judges and the knowledge that they were safe in the hands of the people. The character of the office does not admit of any personal campaign, but it is not necessary in this case. It is sufficient for the people to know the motive that made the Court, and they also know that the only way they can rebuke selfish party leaders is to elect the members of the minority ticket having clean records and nominated in a thoroughly harmonious and representative convention.

Some of the ultra Protectionist organs have reached the conclusion that the tariff cuts no figure in the campaign. They were never more mistaken in their lives. The Wilson tariff measure is very much in evidence this year. The noise and bustle of increased industry are heard on every hand, and the benefit of increased wages is being felt too well to give the voters any chance to lose sight of the wise administration of the Democracy. The people were hasty last year. Their eyes are open, and they are now able to sift the wheat from the chaff and will not be fooled longer by empty assertions and impossible prophecies. With the facts before them, they cannot fail to see the justice of supporting the Democratic ticket in its entirety.

The cry of non-partisanship in the Common Pleas Judges' contests throughout the State is being raised by some Republican organs. They still cling to the idea of electing all of their six candidates for Superior Court Judge. Theirs is, certainly a one-sided non-partisan scheme.

A CATSKILL HOTEL MAN.

(From Catskill N. Y., Recorder.)

Mr. Joseph McGiffet, one of our prominent hotel proprietors, has reason to extol the merits of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. In speaking of it he said: "I was all run down from kidney and liver trouble, three physicians treated me but I grew worse. A friend said to me. Why don't you take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy? It cured me.' So I began its use the result was I gained daily, and in a little while I was sound and well again. I suppose I have recommended it to a hundred or more of my summer boarders, and in every instance it has done them good."

Opposed to High Licence.

The avowed purpose of the Pennsylvania Retail Liquor Dealers' League, in its second annual convention in Scranton, is, according to the opening address of President Patterson, of Philadelphia, to so amend the Brooks High License Law that the illegal traffic of speak-easies cannot exist, and the legal dealers shall fare more liberally. He denounced the Brooks law. There are 120 delegates in the convention.

The following officers were elected President, R. Patterson, Philadelphia; first vice president, P. S. Huckenstein, Pittsburg; second vice president, Jacob Etzell, Reading; recording secretary, J. H. Williams, Hazleton; financial secretary, Gerald McKernan, Pottsville; treasurer, D. F. Finnegan, Carbondale; sergeant-at-arms, A. L. Martin, Scranton; delegates to the national convention, to be held at Washington, D. C., Messrs. C. J. Andrews, Titusville; Charles Sauers, Philadelphia, and P. H. Huckenstein, Pittsburg.

A loud ring of your doorbell in the dead hours of night is alarming. So is the first hollow sound of a cough from one's husband, wife, son, or daughter. It is disease knocking, with perhaps a certain silent visitor waiting not far away. Arrest that cough. Stop it. Stop it at the start. A few days use of Ely's Pineola Balsam and the danger is past. Relief is immediate; a cure certain. This remedy is rich in the curative principles of the balsams and also contains certain ingredients that are new.

Snake Charmer Bitten.

M. D. Scully, of Loyalsock, Lycoming county, is suffering from the poison of a rattlesnake. Mr. Scully is a "snake charmer" and attended the fair at Lewisburg. The free and easy manner in which he handles the reptiles makes his spectators shudder. While caressing one of the rattlers, the reptile unexpedly bit him on the cheek below the eye. The poison took immediate effect and the man was hurried to town and given medical attention. He was terribly swollen and was frothing at the mouth when the physician's office was reached. The necessary remedies were applied and he is now reported as being out of danger.

Suffered With Rheumatism.

"I suffered for about five years with rheumatism and my mother advised me last spring to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now taking the fifth bottle and have gained in weight. I advise all suffering with rheumatism to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial." Nora E. Kinney, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

A bashful country girl went into one of our grocery stores the other day carrying some live chickens. The fowls had their feet tied to prevent their escape and the young woman placed them on the counter. The clerk who waited on her is noted for his polite manners, but he is not always grammatical, and he smilingly inquired: "Are you sure they will lay there?" "Oh, no, sir," she stammered, they're all roosters."—Ex.

The French say "it is the impossible that happens." This has proved to be the case with the Mount Lebanon Shakers. The whole scientific world has been laboring to cure dyspepsia, but every effort seemed to meet with defeat. The suffering from stomach troubles has become almost universal. Multitudes have no desire for food and that which they do eat, causes them pain and distress. Sleepless nights are the rule and not the exception, and thousands of sufferers have become discouraged.

The Shakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to the front with their new Digestive Cordial, which contains not only a food already digested, but is a digester of food.

It promptly relieves nearly all forms of indigestion. Ask your druggist for one of their books.

A Minister's Experience With Heart Disease.

Rev. L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa.: "For many years my greatest enemy has been organic heart disease. From uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation, it had developed into thumping, fluttering, and choking sensations. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave instant relief. A few bottles have rid me of almost every symptom of heart disease. It is a wonder-worker." Sold by Wm. S. Rishton. 6-15-1y.

OUR ALBANY LETTER.

RECENT RAPID PROGRESS IN ELECTRICAL INVENTION.

Improvements in the Telephone and Telegraph—Why Capitalists are Backward—A Scheme for Uniting the Blue and the Gray.

Special Albany Letter.

It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless a fact, that the astonishing improvements being made in the application of electricity to the various purposes for which it is adapted have actually retarded the development which is surely near at hand. The great and small electricians have been making discoveries which are astonishing even to the minds which have wrought them out, and these follow each other in such rapid succession that capitalists hesitate to invest money in any improvement until they can be assured that another will not come on next week which will make the application of electricity so much more successful and economical as to make the former invention entirely worthless. A great company has been formed to compete with the existing telephone companies, and in this city and vicinity canvassers have been at work securing subscribers. These have been readily obtained, because of the reduced prices at which the service will be furnished. But now a rumor comes which has considerable foundation. It is to the effect that the new company does not desire to construct its lines until it is assured of the success or failure of certain experiments that are now being made.

One inventor has nearly succeeded in perfecting a device which enables him to do away with the services of the switchers in the central office, and if it proves successful there will be no telephone girls to relate supposed secrets which the wires have revealed to them. Dr. Herz, of France, has revealed some recent discoveries which he has made, and which it is believed will entirely revolutionize the business of both the telephone and telegraph companies. The great French savant claims that instead of cabling twenty words a minute, he can transmit 100,000 words, and that messages of fifty words can be profitably transmitted for five cents.

With such astonishing inventions as these breaking upon the public view, is it any wonder that capitalists desire to know that subsequent improvements will not wipe out their investments?

In connection with this subject it may well be asked if the newspapers are safe. The restless inventors are even now trenching upon their legitimate fields, and who can say what a few years will bring forth?

A telephone newspaper has been established at Pesth, Hungary, which is the only one of its kind in the world. It is called the Telephone Herald and has 6,000 subscribers. Over the wires of the company the news is delivered from the voices of a corps of ten "speakers" with strong voices, who work in shifts of two at a time. There are twenty-eight editions every day, and persons who are too lazy to read can listen to the news of the day at their telephone. To fill up the time when no news is coming, the subscribers are entertained with vocal and instrumental concerts, as the wire is in communication with the operas and music halls, and on Sundays with the churches.

In view of the successful operation of this method of disseminating news, it is impossible for any one to say what the future has in store for us in the development of the application of electricity.

The proposition for an annual reunion of the "Blue and the Gray" is meeting with much friendly comment. A writer in one of the New York papers who was a Confederate has recently suggested that the Confederates in New York city should parade with the G. A. R. on next Memorial Day, thus making a grand peace demonstration on a day that recalls to all the most sympathetic and sacred memories of fallen comrades. It is gratifying to know that this suggestion has met with very hearty approval. But from the neighboring city of Troy there comes one which goes far beyond this ex-Confederate suggestion.

Comrade George H. Enniss, of Griswold Post, has made a proposition for a reunion of the "Blue and the Gray" which is the most comprehensive as well as the most magnominious which I have ever listened to. He suggests that at the next annual encampment of the G. A. R. the Confederate camps shall also be represented by their delegates, and that there shall be organized the "Grand Army of American Valor," membership in which shall be extended to all who wore the Gray, as well as to all who wore the Blue. Comrade Ennis believes that such an organization would elevate and ennoble the patriotic purposes of our citizens more than any other movement could. He argues that the time has surely come when the differences of the past should be obliterated, and all lovers of our country, irrespective of politics, creed or sectional boundaries, should unite with this one purpose clearly in view.

Apart from all sentiment, and considered only from a business point of view, an event of this character would have a great effect in fostering kindly feeling between the business elements of the country. It would help to bring trade to the business men of the North and would assist in bringing capital to develop the vast resources of the South, thereby mutually benefiting all the business interests of the nation.

It is recalled that the Roman conquerors always erected triumphal arches to commemorate their victories. But victories in civil wars were always commemorated with arches built of wood. The meaning of this was that as time and the forces of nature beat down these memorials their crumbling in decay should symbolize the obliteration of all bitterness and animosity, and that the differences of the past should forever be forgotten in the exaltation of a higher and more patriotic purpose. The proposition to organize the "Grand Army of American Valor" is indeed a radical one, and it must of necessity provoke much discussion. Its consummation would mark an epoch in the history of nations, and demonstrate to the world that the American soldier is capable of achievements in peace far more renowned than those of any the world has ever produced.

GERMANY'S COMING MAN.

Count von Waldersee is Honored by Emperor William.

The coming man in Germany is Von Waldersee. The Kaiser has conferred upon him the exceptional rank of Field Marshal of the Empire and paid him the highest tributes of admiration upon the generalship he displayed at the military maneuvers at Stettin.

It must not be forgotten that he "defeated" the Kaiser by a forced march, reversing the whole programme and evoking the plaudits of the military experts. The skill he displayed in these sham operations confirmed the opinion that he would be the man to guide the German armies in the next European war in which Germany shall figure if it occurs within his lifetime.

Von Waldersee is of special interest to Count von Waldersee.

Americans because he married a lady of American birth. The Countess was formerly Miss Mary Lea, of New York. In 1864 she married the aged Austrian Prince Von Noer. Upon her marriage the Emperor of Austria created her a Princess in her own right. In 1867, after the death of Von Noer, she married Von Waldersee, to whom she brought an immense fortune. The Count is now in his sixty-third year.

He has been forty-five years in the army and served with distinction in the Franco-German campaign. In addition to being an illustrious soldier, he belongs to one of the oldest Prussian families, and is a courtier of the most polished inherited type. He succeeded Von Moltke as chief of the general staff, but resigned the position a few years ago, to the great chagrin of the Kaiser.

Since that time he has been in command of the Ninth Army Corps. A score of brilliant executive and strategic achievements are to his credit, and, while he has not written so voluminously as Von Moltke, he is the author of several works of authority. As a tactician he is believed to be Von Moltke's equal, and in dash and energy without a superior in the long line of warriors who have followed Frederick the Great. He has made a lifelong study of Russia's military system and resources and may yet have an opportunity to measure his wits and his blade against the coming soldier in Russia, Gen. Dragomiroff.

That Question of Obedience.

Mrs. Emma Jackson, of Chicago, has been investigating a subject which concerns all women who hope to wed—in other words, all women who are not already wed. The result of her research is cheering to the progressive. She says:

"I was told that you could not get married unless you promised to obey your husband. The thing was said so often that finally I came to believe it. In the past year the old story has come up again and again. I got tired of it finally and looked into the matter. To my surprise I find that there is no authority for it whatever. In the early Christian church the pastor merely put the question: 'Do you, Jane, take this man for your husband?' and 'Do you, John, take this woman for your wife?' That's all there was to it. The great Roman Catholic Church, the Greek, Coptic and Armenian have followed the same practice. The Church of England, in the tie of Henry VIII., and one or more of the German churches introduced the word 'obey,' and that's where it comes from. I hardly fancy that that monarch is a good man to pattern after. There are a number of sects, German, Scandinavian and I believe English, which make both husband and wife promise to obey the other."

Cinders in the Eye.

If cinders or dust render the eye painful, place a flaxseed under the lid of the eye and close it; the mucilage which exudes from the seed alleviates the irritation, and the objectionable particle is apt to attach itself to the gelatinous seed, so that when it is removed the cinder or dust comes away with it.

CONSUMPTION

can, without doubt, be cured in its early stages. It is a battle from the start, but with the right kind of weapons properly used it can be overcome and the insidious foe vanquished. Hope, courage, proper exercise, willpower, and the regular and continuous use of the best nourishing food-medicine in existence—

Scott's Emulsion

—the wasting can be arrested, the lungs healed, the cough cured, bodily energies renewed and the physical powers made to assert themselves and kill the germs that are beginning to find lodgment in the lungs. This renowned preparation, that has no doubt cured hundreds of thousands of incipient cases of Comsumption, is simply Cod-liver Oil emulsified and made palatable and easy of assimilation, combined with the Hypophosphites, the great bone, brain and nerve tonic.

The Great Sails of Racing Yachts.

The sails of the racers are probably the most wonderful part of their whole make up. Defender, when she has her mainsail, her jib, her jib topsail, her staysail, and her working topsail up, carries 12,000 square feet of canvas. And when she substitutes for these working-sails her balloon jib, her club topsail, and puts out her spinnaker she almost doubles that area. These sails cost thousands of dollars, because there must be several of each in case of accident to one or another, and for use in the different kinds of wind that may prevail in a race. There is a heavy mainsail for strong winds of sea-island cotton of Egyptian cotton or ramie cloth, while the jibs are made of lighter grades or the same material, until they come down to the constituency of a coarse pocket-handkerchief. One of Defender's spinnakers is of Scotch linen. In 1893 it was reported that one of Valkyrie II's big spinnakers was of silk, but it was not; it was of exceedingly fine Irish linen.

Taking all these matters into account, and considering that each boat must have from forty to fifty sailors to man her, it becomes evident that the building and maintaining of such a yacht is a matter of no small expense. Mr. George Gould spent no less than $40,000 to put Vigilant in condition to race with Defender in the preliminary trials this year. The crew has to be engaged and trained for weeks before the racer is put into commission, and kept at work for a couple of months before the great contests for the Cup are held. These sailors, of coarse, cannot live on the yacht, since there is no room for bunks or lockers or a galley on the modern racing machine. Therefore both Defender and Valkyrie have steam-tenders.—Harpers' Round Table.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Owing to the recent death of Benjamin Blewitt and Mrs. Caleb Barton, two of the prominent members of the Methodist Episcopal church the services last Sunday morning were in honor of their memory. Rev. Conner said among things that "Mrs. Barton was worthy of being classed among the heroes. She was a woman of retiring disposition, but of strong convictions, and one of the first to organize Methodism in Bloomsburg, and undoubtedly had met with much opposition, but notwithstanding this, she persevered and the result is the large flourishing congregation now in the Town. She was hopeful, full of courage, happy and cheerful, and by means of these traits of character won and held many friends."

Mr. Blewitt he stated was a man of great faith. He never questioned his salvation. He worked, prayed, and talked with men in regard to their salvation, and had faith that God would answer his prayers.

He was a great worker for the Lord, working in, and out of season. Some people are very energetic on certain occasions. Such as revivals &c., but during the rest of the year do nothing. Mr. Blewitt was not that kind of a man. He worked all the time, and under all circumstances. Midst all his sufferings he had great patience, never murmered nor complained. These people endeared themselves to the community by their sincerity, consistancy, conscientiousness and consecrated lives.

They endeavored to live one day like another. People respected them because they respected their conscience. They were consecrated. I would rather be like them, than to have extraordinary gifts of intellectual endowment, riches or fill the highest office in the land. We can't all be rich, and intellectual and fill high positions but, we can all be like them, and I pray that their mantle may fall upon us."

Mr. Conner then stated that any of the congregation who had any remarks to make would be at liberty to do so. I. W. Hartman, said he had known Mrs. Barton for 62 years, and had first been attracted to her when a boy of 8 years of age by her modest and unassuming character. She was a regular attendant at class meetings, and a great worker at revivals. He was present when Mr. Blewitt was converted, and that he was a glorious man, and hoped that his mantle would fall upon him."

G. W. Corell said," he had known Mrs. Barton 47 years, and had the greatest respect for her, and great faith in her religion. Mr. Blewitt had joined his class at the time of his conversion.

F. B. Hartman said that 20 years ago he worked in a blacksmith shop and sharpened tools for the miners, and would never forget the good counsel he received from Mr. Blewitt. He would talk with the men at noon in regard to their souls and they all respected and loved him.

Remarks of a similar character were made by L. T. Sharpless, W. B. Cummings, George Enterline and James C. Brown. It was a service long to be remembered.

In the Novice bicycle race Thursday afternoon, Harry Knies' bicycle broke when they were finishing the last quarter, throwing him to the ground. The riders who were behind him fell on and over him. Dave Boughton was in this race, but was so far behind that the mishap did not affect him. Dave came nearly being distanced.

"TAKEN IN."

"I used often to read the newspaper aloud to my wife," said Bert Robinson, "and once I was fairly 'taken in' by a patent medicine advertisement. The seductive paragraph began with a modest account of the sea-serpent, but ended by setting forth the virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which, it was alleged, was a cure for all Bronchial, Throat and Lung troubles, and would even cure Consumption, if taken in time. The way I was taken in was this: I had lung disease, and I bought a bottle of the remedy; I was a stranger to it, and it took me in—and cured me." Robinson's experience is identical with that of thousands of others. So true is this, that after witnessing, for many years, the marvelous cures of Bronchial, Throat and Lung affections wrought by this wonderful remedy, its manufacturers feel warranted in saying that this remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty cod liver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of malt, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like palliatives.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.

IN THE LOCK UP.

It has been some time since the above place has had an inmate, but the excitement or "booze" of last week proved too much for Henry Kreischer, Mahlon Snyder, Edward Jones, and Lew Hildebrant. They were arrested by Chief Knorr on the charge of drunkenness, and Hildebrandt on the additional one of disorderly conduct. The three first named were ordered by President of the Town Council Creasy to give up three dollars toward the support of the Town, and Hildebrant was obliged to go two dollars better. The first three paid the fine, and Lew gave bail to pay his in ten days.

"Union with Christ" will be the theme of Rev. Weeks' sermon next Sunday morning at the Baptist Church.

This Sermon was delivered before the Baptist Association recently held at Jersy Shore, and by request of the Church, will be repeated here.

Everybody is invited.

W. L. Demaree has moved into his new residence on Fifth Street. He has one of the most convenient homes on that street.

AMOS BUCKALEW DEAD.

Amos Buckalew, who was known to nearly all of our readers, died at his home on Main Street, last Saturday. Whilst he had been sick for a long time, and his death was not unexpected, still it always brings with it a shock when we are informed that one of our number has passed away. He had been sick for a long time, and for several years had been unable to leave the house. He was born in Cambria, Luzerne Co., October 11," 1837, and at the time of his death, was aged 58 years and one day. When he arrived at the age of manhood he came to Bloomsburg, and was employed by George Risewick who at that time owned a livery in this place. Mr. Risewick died in 1879, and he together with his brother R. C. purchased the said business. which they have conducted up to this time. He was married to Miss Mears in 1879, and throughout his long sickness she has proved a loving, sympathetic wife, and has in her affliction the sympathy of the entire community. The funeral services were held at his late residence, Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock by Rev. Patterson of the Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member, and his remains were followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of friends.
